ophthalmic staffing by ophthalmic professionals
only leads to one thing, a 97% success rate.

Life in the ophthalmic industry is different from life in others. Most staffing companies don't get that, because they haven't worked in the industry, like we have.

We started imatters specifically to address the unique staffing needs of the ophthalmic industry. Our 97% success rate, and our hundreds of satisfied, repeat clients have validated our unique approach.

Hiring by trial and error can cost you dearly. imatters matches the best and brightest candidates with positions that suit them – based on experience, skill-sets and personal chemistry. And, as you'd expect from the leading placement firm in our industry, we verify previous employers, references, licenses, certifications, as well as background checks – we even offer scholarships so our candidates come to you with the latest learning.

Why we have candidates you don't.

Two-thirds of our workforce won't reply to ads – they're fearful of losing their current jobs. At the same time, they want to know about job opportunities. imatters acts as the buffer they need to "test the waters" without jeopardizing their livelihoods. When a great opportunity comes along, they're ready to act.

Quality candidates, not quantity.

Your staffing odyssey ends when you narrow down the field of candidates to the best two or three. Actually, that's where imatters starts. We screen and re-screen and get to know each candidate. And because we know your world intimately, we recommend only the few that fit the bill.

You don't pay until you hire.

We're sure of ourselves, and of the people we'll recommend to you. That's why you don't pay us until all our work pays off. We collect a fee only when you make a hire.

Helping make your practice perfect.

Because of our broad industry experience and exposure, imatters also offers:
